Coat of Arms

Burleigh

Historiography

The Burleigh Coat of Arms illustrated left was drawn by an heraldic artist from information officially recorded in ancient heraldic archives. Documentation for the Burleigh Coat of Arms design can be found in Burke's General Armory. Heraldic artists of old developed their own unique language to describe an individual Coat of Arms. In their language, the Arms (shield) is as follows:

"Paly of six ar. and gu. on a chief also paly six crescents all counterchanged."

When translated the Arms description is:

"Divided vertically of six pieces silver and red, on a upper third also divided in six, crescents, all counterchanged."

Above the shield and helmet is the Crest which is described as:

"A stag's head erased gu."

A translation of the Crest description is:

"A red stag's head jagged."

Family mottoes are believed to have originated as battle cries in medieval times.

A Motto was not recorded with the Burleigh Coat of Arms.

Individual surnames originated for the purpose of more specific identification. The four primary sources for second names were: occupation, location, father's name and personal characteristics. The surname Burleigh appears to be locational in origin, and is believed to be associated with the English, meaning, "one who came from, or lived near a cow-shed clearing." The supplementary sheet included with this report is designed to give you more information to further your understanding of the origin of names. Different spellings of the same original surname are a common occurrence. Dictionaries of surnames indicate probable spelling variations. The most prominent variations of Burleigh are Burley, Borleg, Burlay, Burlighe and Burleighs.

Census records available disclose the fact there are approximately 700 heads of households in the United States with the old and distinguished Burleigh name. The United States Census Bureau estimates there are approximately 3.2 persons per household in America today which yields an approximate total of 2240 people in the United States carrying the Burleigh name. Although the figure seems relatively low, it does not signify the many important contributions that individuals bearing the Burleigh name have made to history.

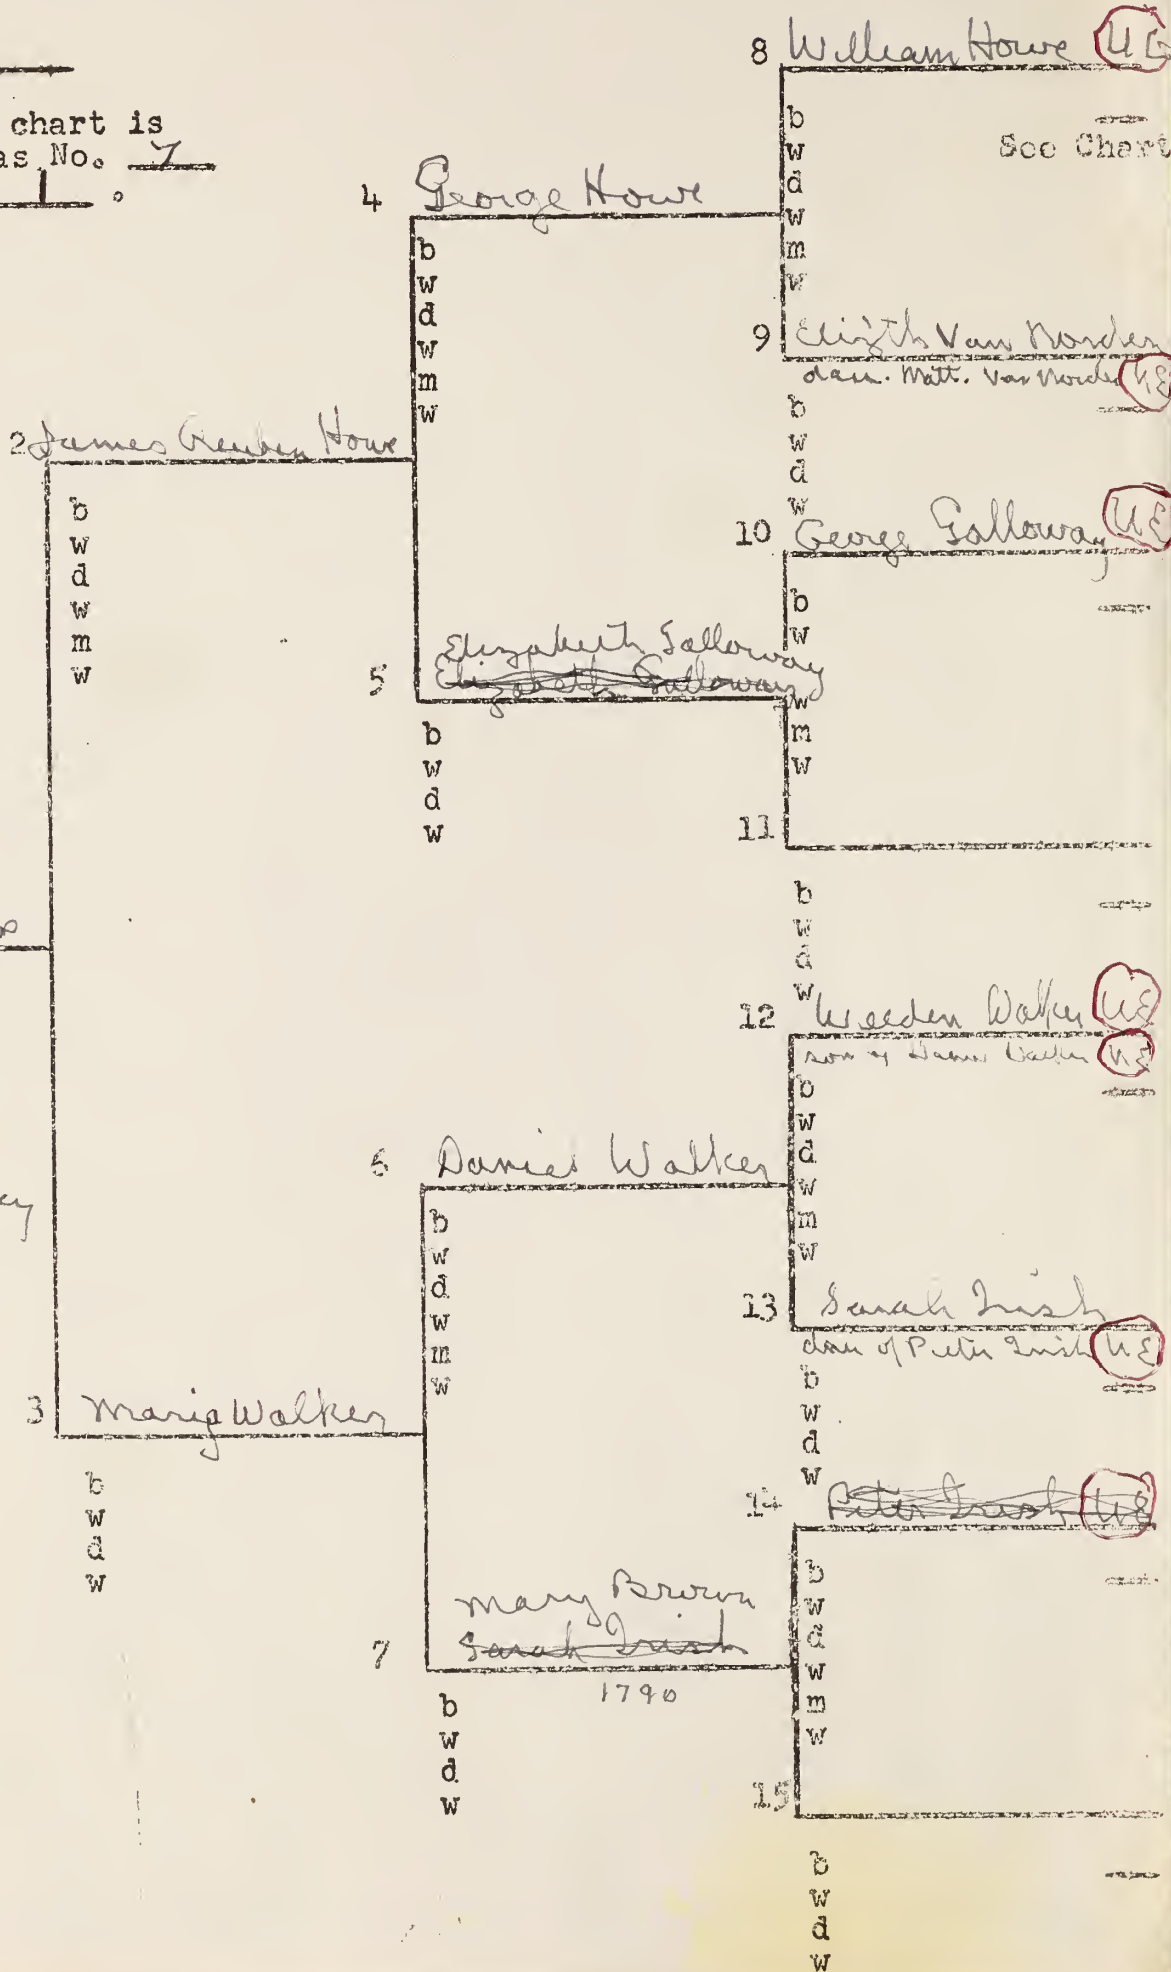

No genealogical representation is intended or implied by this report and it does not represent individual lineage or your family tree.
